THE POTTER INVESTIGATION

[illegible]

Matthew [illegible] by [illegible] Butler
[illegible] yesterday he had not met [illegible] this [illegible] veracity [illegible] mistaken.
[illegible]

Butler Now [illegible] that you did not have some curiosity as to what [illegible] document.
Answer [illegible]
Butler inquired of witness if he [illegible] he had never asked [illegible] what the [illegible] that was going to make [illegible]
Mrs Jenks wife [illegible] was sworn and testified that Anderson had written her [illegible] in relation to a document which he termed the Sherman letter. She knew nothing of the document which Anderson called the Sherman letter until 1st January. She had [illegible] at [illegible]
Question Did you ever have that document?
Answer—I think I have ever had the original document to which [illegible] there is [illegible] one attached right [illegible] her hand [illegible] at the time on the street General Butler [illegible] with a view of ascertaining [illegible] she [illegible] that there might have been persons in the room. She did not [illegible] Afterward [illegible] she went in the street with it kept it in her possession about two minutes [illegible] half. She got the document in [illegible] Charles Hotel. [illegible] the document [illegible] Weber at the entrance of the [illegible] hotel.
Witness made a statement that she wished in the presence of the committee to exonerate Secretary Sherman and Anderson from any connection whatever with the document. In [illegible] Weber guarantee and she did [illegible] necessary for her to make any further explanation. Butler explained that it was necessary to give the information required. [illegible] witness proceeded to testify, saying that after giving the letter to Weber [illegible] remarked that Anderson [illegible] not satisfied with his treatment but wished [illegible] a written guarantee in reply to the question as to the contents of the letter handed by [illegible]. Witness repeated [illegible] for which she [illegible] as heretofore published. [illegible] Butler submitted a letter written [illegible] Mrs. Weber bearing the signature of Agnes Jenks, and witness recognized it as a letter written to Mrs Weber by herself requesting the former to [illegible] the document as [illegible] to her husband [illegible] Anderson. In the event of her producing the document she (Mrs. Jenks) would see that she was well paid for her trouble. Witness then stated that she never knew of any other letter addressed to Anderson and Weber which contained the guarantee. She had never seen the document since she gave it to Weber. Her husband had [illegible] that [illegible] had mentioned the existence of the Sherman letter to him on the 6th of January last. She came to Washington on her own account. Had notified Kellogg of her intention of coming before she left New Orleans. She came here on business of her own and business concerning the nation at large. Witness admitted having written to Anderson inquiring if he desired the "S letter". After further interrogation regarding the Sherman letter witness asked Butler what he wanted with the Sherman letter. In the course of the examination of Mrs. Jenks with reference to persons present in the parlor of the St. Charles hotel at the time she picked up the letter [illegible] the signature of John Sherman she stated that Gen Garr [illegible] and Mr Hale were among those present but she was quite positive Mr Sherman was not. Recess
After recess the examination was resumed by McMahon who tried to elicit from witness a statement as to whom she delivered the letter or note which Weber gave her addressed to Sherman. Witness refused to state saying only perhaps it was not delivered to any one and finally she distinctly and emphatically refused to answer or to say who wrote the reply to the so called Sherman letter. She said it might have been given to the four winds
Q—If you remember anything about it say so. If you do not say you do not remember.
A—Well if you want me to say I do not remember I will say so.
Q—But are you willing to swear that you do not remember?
A—My memory serves me ill sometimes
Q—Yes, I should judge so. I want to know whether that paper was delivered by you or handed by you to anybody else.
A—The paper was never handed by me to any body. It might have gone in the waste basket
Q—Did you lay it down on the table where somebody else might have picked it up.
She said however, she dictated the answer and that should satisfy McMahon. Further [illegible] she said it was not dictated to one of the visitors at [illegible] she considered it a rather [illegible] document. She could not state who was in the room at the time she dictated. The gentlemen never impressed her much. The following is a specimen of the language between the inquisitor and the witness, the subject being the Sherman letter
Q. Did you deliver the letter to the usher who showed you into the parlor?
A—No sir I did not like to do that; you know.
Q. What is the reason you did not like to?
A. Well he looked fatigued perhaps
Q. You delivered it to somebody down stairs?
A—No I do not think I delivered it to anybody else down stairs. They were all so much engaged it would have been impossible for them to have received a letter just at this time
Q. You know the two Felicianas were important parishes in the election
A—Very
Q—And you knew it bore upon the protest?
A—Well it was public matter.
Q—Did you deliver the letter to anybody?
A—I do not know who ever received it or that anyone received it
Q. Do you mean to say that anybody ever [illegible] received it out of your hands?
A. They never advised me of the fact that they did.
Q. Did it ever pass out of your hands?
A. I do not remember. I [illegible] it a matter [illegible] and it was [illegible] in the waste basket.
Q. You found it at an usher on the table.
A. The answer was on the table
Q. Did you see it [illegible] there
A. I might have done so
Q. But I want to know what you did see
A—I will say then that I do not remember if that is what you [illegible] I was in haste at the time and it was a small matter and I did not want to waste time. It was nothing to me
At the time the Sherman letter was written when she came to Washington Sherman would not accord her a private interview and she would not make known her business publicly. She saw Matthews several times. She considered Packard a political martyr and was interested in him for the collectorship. She did not apply for a position for her husband. She had a letter from Anderson which she wanted to show Sherman. It declared that he (Anderson) knew of a letter that if it was made public would damn Sherman forever. Sherman having refused to see her regarding this letter she dropped the matter. She had seen Mr Shellabarger once but he was testy and short and she got nothing from him.
In answer to questions witness detailed fully her friendship with Weber. She related a conversation with Weber who told her he wanted a written guaranty from Sherman and had written a [illegible] and wanted witness to take a note to Sherman. Witness took the note to Sherman and while holding it in her hand unconsciously bit the end off it and [illegible] not to hand it to Sherman. [illegible] and therefore never did hand it to him. However the so called Sherman letter was written in reply to the note never delivered, and was given [illegible] Weber and Anderson. Witness [illegible] say she wrote the Sherman letter.
Butler read a letter from Agnes Jenks to Mrs Weber dated October 10 1877 saying she [illegible] some [illegible] work [illegible] with Mr Weber [illegible] Anderson [illegible] Mr Weber's [illegible] the document about which [illegible] and saying she [illegible] remunerated for her trouble. Witness identified the above letter.
Butler then read one to Mr Dear Tom [illegible] Philadelphia September [illegible] signed James [illegible] And [illegible] saying it was probably [illegible] [illegible] investigation of the [illegible] letter and Weber [illegible] Witness stated that she was the [illegible] letter [illegible] that she did not understand that the letter which Anderson wrote for was the Sherman letter. [illegible] asked no further [illegible]
[illegible] Butler then read a letter dated New Orleans, Nov 1, 18[illegible] signed A D Jenks and addressed to Kellogg saying Anderson valued highly the letter but declaring Anderson would never get that or any other papers he valued highly. He said that if Anderson dared show his fangs in the [illegible] matter they could extract them [illegible] had no documentary proof. The poor fool [illegible] signed others like himself, and that the honor of [illegible]

[illegible]
A [illegible]
[illegible] Witness had [illegible] he had met [illegible] she [illegible] with [illegible]

Witness said he had met [illegible] and he had [illegible] her something [illegible] like the [illegible] letter [illegible] thereafter [illegible]

A Silver City dispatch says the Umatilla Indians have all left their reservation [illegible] the mountains are full of them.

[This is probably [illegible] rumor. Latest advices from Umatilla reservation indicate nothing of this kind. We hear of no departure of Indians from there. THE EASTERN QUESTION.

Compromise Adopted

Vienna, June 21 —The reichsrath finally adopted the Austro Hungarian compromise. A letter from Berlin states the Anglo Austrian understanding extends to matters beyond the scope of the congress.

Question for the Congress

Berlin, June 22 —The plenipotentiaries of England, Russia and Austria agreed to the following points which will be submitted to the congress: [illegible] The frontier of [illegible] Bulgaria is to be fixed at the Balkans. The Turks are to have the right to fortify the Balkan passes, and to garrison the fortified places. Sofia is to be included in Roumelia and Varna in Bulgaria. The Turks are to [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] of Montenegro and the boundaries of Servia are to be [illegible] those countries to receive [illegible] station on the south.

A telegram from Constantinople constrained the Russians to thus settle these questions. If the report is true one of the few points which might cause a breaking up of congress is that the Bulgarian boundary is settled in a sense favorable to English and Austrian views

Meeting Herzegovinian Insurgents

Ragusa, June 22 A recent meeting of Herzegovinian insurgent leaders in Cettinje was convoked to summon all the Rayahs to arms. Delegates from lower Herzegovina however absolutely refused to participate in such movements as influential persons in their districts evinced a leaning to Austria

Passes of the Balkans

St Petersburg, June 22—There is much excitement here concerning arrangements by which Turkey is allowed to occupy the Balkan passes. It is thought Count Schouvaloff is accountable for making this concession Russians in Servia.

Belgrade, June 22—Large numbers of Russian officers are expected here to morrow. It is stated in well informed circles that in certain eventualities two divisions of Russian infantry will enter the country as a reinforcement to the Servian army

The agent at Umatilla reservation has received orders from headquarters to permit about 25 of his Indians to act as scouts under Gen. Howard. From all accounts the young Indians are not very eager for the fray and the old men in council incline toward the stay at home policy.

THE INDIAN UPRISING

[illegible]

From the Boise Statesman June 15

Among the [illegible] Fort Hall [illegible] that by the government that [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] they were [illegible] upon the reservation, and consequently compelled to leave and go upon the war path. If this is true and the price to be paid [illegible] of the Indian [illegible] kept and fed [illegible] the expense of the government. It is vain to hope for a cessation of Indian wars. The government [illegible] to provide for these Indians sufficiently to keep them contented and peaceful, as long as they are allowed to roam wherever they please and find the means of providing themselves with [illegible] them [illegible] a favorite pastime of robbery and murder.

The agent at the Bannock reservation may be a very conscientious gentleman; we know nothing to the contrary. But he is a part of a wrong and vicious system. He is powerless in himself to change this system however [illegible] he may be inclined to do so. The majority of the Indians at this reservation, as at others, have an invincible repugnance to labor and cannot be induced by any means short of physical coercion to engage in any useful occupation. When summer approaches they prepare to leave, and the agent is only too glad to be rid of their presence for a season and they seek their own support by fishing and hunting. In the case of the Bannacks they have for several years repeated their complaints about the presence of settlers with their stock upon the big Camas prairie and have made many attempts to annoy the whites and frighten them by threats from coming upon the prairie.

However they know the whites have as good a right to occupy this Camas country as they have. The only complaint they have made in former years is against the hogs that have been driven on and kept there by the white people. They have always said they had no objection to the cattle and horses that were herded there because they would not root up their camas.

This season they found themselves supported by the general disaffection of the neighboring tribes with whom they have been allowed to keep themselves in communication, and have concluded to urge their claims in a more determined and active manner.

Some of them were with the United States troops during the campaign against the Nez Perces last year and witnessed the light punishment inflicted upon those Indians during the campaign and they all know how magnanimously the government [illegible] toward Joseph and the portion of his band which surrendered. They also knew the exposed and defenceless condition of the people and the difficulties which troops would encounter in pursuing and overtaking them. All these circumstances tended to induce in them the belief that the present season was favorable for the prosecution of their plans.

The only remedy that can be applied now is that which will doubtless be adopted by General Howard and the officers and troops under his command—to pursue the Indians wherever they may go until they are cornered and forced to surrender at discretion and unconditionally. When this is done we hope it will be followed by a radical change in the treatment of those Indians. They should no longer be allowed to roam at will over the country but should be kept upon the reserve [illegible] where they should be deprived of the means of making war. The Indian does not need the [illegible] arms to kill game. The old fashioned muzzle [illegible] rifle or shotgun is all that he needs for that purpose.

Disarm the Indian, discharge the Indian agent and turn the management of Indian affairs over to the officers of the United States army whose interest will be on the side of peace and honest administration and we shall soon hear no more of Indian wars.

Suppose Mr. Mitchell Had Done This.

MIXED FARMING.

It is well understood that the fertility of soil can be maintained only by giving back to it what it parts with in the production of crops; yet many go on planting the same crop on land year after year, adding no fertilizing material and reaping reduced harvests, just as if it were not known that plants derive much of their sustenance from the soil, and that long continued practice of sowing the same kind of grain in a field will exhaust it of its grain-making constituents. Only land which is subject to annual overflow and receives therefrom fertilizing deposits which compensate for the loss, can sustain this constant drain upon its resources, and, in proportion to our whole area, we have not much of this kind of land. True, most soils have power of supplying from rain and other sources what they part with to the crops grown upon them, if time enough be given. But it is necessary, if we wish to keep up the fertility of our fields, not to sow the same kind of grain in them for too long a time continuously. Experience has shown that a grain crop should be followed by roots and grass, so that the soil may regain those grain-making constituents with which it has parted. In this way a rest, without loss to the farmer, is given to the land, and instead of losing it actually gains in productive power. It is usually said that the soil of Oregon is inexhaustible; that wheat may always be grown here without failure or diminution of yield. To many the unexampled excellence of our lands has seemed to justify such an assertion; but it is not true, and measures should be taken in time to prevent the inevitable consequences of what may be termed "one-field farming." Vast as are the resources of our soil, every crop takes something from it which is not replaced by the farmer, and which nature is not allowed time enough to restore in her way. It is perfectly certain that the result of this system will be the same in Oregon as heretofore in the older states. The time will come when our fields will have to be fertilized heavily to yield the crops which we have been accustomed to reap from them. But it is much easier and less expensive to prevent the exhaustion of land than to restore it after it has been impoverished. In some of the older states lands were quite as fertile once as ours are; but a wasteful manner of tilling exhausted their fertility, and compelled the use of very expensive methods to restore it. Had a proper system been adopted from the first this waste could have been prevented and the fields might have retained their productive power. Mixed farming is the system required. We know several farmers from the British islands who are now introducing upon lands in Oregon the methods which scientific observation and actual experience have taught to be necessary in order to prevent the exhaustion of the soil and to make farming pay as a permanent business; and they do this by acquainting themselves with the properties of their soils, by varying their crops, by managing their drainage, by utilizing manures, and by proper selection, care and management of animals for the farm. Under this system dairy products, vegetables, butchers' meat and wool, as well as the cereals, become a regular part of the production of the farm. For this mixed farming, which is the most profitable farming, no country is better adapted than Oregon. Our farmers ought to take advantage of their opportunities. Our mild winters enable them to carry their animals through with much less care and feed than are necessary in the eastern states; and good beef cattle are in demand in the spring time everywhere. Again, by having variety of products, the farmer is more independent of dealers, and not so liable to be affected by fluctuations of the market. If he have but one thing to sell he must part with it when he wants money, whatever be the price. But if he have variety of commodities he may often select the market for himself. The system thus briefly outlined has enriched farmers of England and Scotland, and is at least worth consideration by farmers of Oregon. We know of farmers who are undertaking it, in every case with promise of thrift and prosperity.

THE EX-CONFEDERATES AND THE COUNT.

Senator Hill, of Georgia, makes a really pathetic story of that matter relative to the forty-two ex-confederate representatives and the electoral count, of which we had brief notice by telegraph some days ago. To a representative of the New York Times he enlarges on the subject, stating that these forty-two had pledged their sacred honor not to allow the count to be frustrated, and that their motive was the patriotic one of preventing another war. They held no meeting. Hill simply called on each member and obtained his signature to a paper containing the pledge. These forty-two, acting with the Republicans, could have prevented any interference with the count; and, according to Hill, they certainly would have done so. There was a meeting of certain Democrats at Wormley's hotel in Washington, who claimed to have it in their power to prevent completion of the count. This produced considerable alarm at the time; and up to the day when Hill made this statement the power of the participants in this conference to have arrested and frustrated the count has been undisputed. But Hill says he and his ex confederate associates, anticipating this very danger, had taken an entirely effective way to prevent it, should it be attempted. When the decision of the electoral commission in the Florida case was made known Hill became satisfied that the disputed states would be decided in favor of Hayes, and the issue presently would be the legal inauguration of Hayes or another revolution. "I consulted," he says, "with a few ex-confederates, all members of the house, and the situation was thoroughly and earnestly discussed. Not to enter into unnecessary details, we, who had just emerged from a ruinous and disastrous war and had experienced its devastating effects—we ex-rebels determined to prevent a second war and spare the country from all the terrible horrors that would attend it. We conducted the movement with the greatest caution, for we did not desire our plans should be even suspected. You may judge how well the secret has been kept when it has remained inviolate to this day." Senator Hill says this action will some day be referred to as one of the most patriotic things in American history. He does not give the names of those who were associated with him in this patriotic movement. Perhaps Mr. Tilden would have their re-election defeated if he were sure of their names. Hill himself has been transferred to the senate where he is safe for six years, and he can afford to avow his own agency in the affair.

Democrats of Idaho will hold their territorial convention on the 14th September to [illegible] delegate for congress.

THE RECENT ELECTION.

At length we are able to give the vote of the state. All the counties are fully reported except Lake, and we have from that county the official majorities. Whiteaker for congress has 1,179 majority. For governor Thayer has 54 majority. For secretary of state Earhart has 291 majority; Hirsch for treasurer has 1,062 majority; Carter for printer has 487 majority and Powell for superintendent of public instruction has 33 majority. The whole vote of the state, when the full returns from Lake are counted, will be just about 34,000. In 1876 the vote for president, which was larger than any previous one, was as follows: Hayes, 15,206; Tilden, 14,149; Cooper 510. Total, 29 865.

Personal and local considerations entered so largely into the recent election that it can hardly be said there was a strict party vote on any office. Perhaps the vote for governor was as near it as any. On comparison we find that Beekman's vote is 803 greater than that thrown for Hayes, while the vote for Thayer is 1,914 larger than that thrown for Tilden. These figures indicate that the Democrats have been gaining more than the Republicans by the immigration, or that the Republican vote was not called out so fully as the Democratic on this occasion. On strictly national issues the Republican party usually does better than on local questions, for the double reason that its whole strength then comes out and there is less chance for irregular and independent voting, of which Republicans invariably do much more than Democrats.

The Bedrock Democrat alleges grave irregularities in the Baker county vote. It alleges that in some of the precincts more votes were counted than were cast, and in others there was no poll list accompanying the returns. Also that the official canvass was illegal. It a contest will make things look mighty says crooked, and promises to ventilate the matter in a future issue.

The Earnest, a fine schooner of the coast survey squadron, has arrived at Seattle from Baltimore, and will take the place of the Yukon in the service on the Sound.

CITY.

HOCHHEIMER NUPTIALS —In honor of the nuptials of Mr. Lehman Blum of this city and Miss Ellie Hochheimer of San Francisco, which were celebrated yesterday in the latter city, a very pleasant party was held last evening at the Progress club rooms The party was given by Mr. Isaac Blum and his cousin Mr Isaac. There were present a large number of ladies and gentlemen and the hall was furnished and appointed rooms presented an unusually animated and brilliant scene. Abundant refreshments were served, and also a choice array of splendid music, and dancing and social converse whiled the hour, and enabled the gay and happy assemblage to pass the evening agreeably. A committee of five persons was appointed to draft congratulatory resolutions expressive of the feelings of the guests, consisting of J. J. Burnett Jos Bachman, Mr ... of Junction, L Fleischner Armstrong ... and Otto Fox of San Francisco. Resolutions were drawn up and telegraphed to Mr. Blum. Throughout the affair passed happily—Mr Isaac Blum acting as master of ceremonies. Miss Hochheimer is said to be a beautiful and accomplished young lady. Mr Lehman Blum is a popular young gentleman well known in this city, where he has a host of friends

A GRATEFUL TRIBUTE —When a seat or a vacant seat is draped in mourning and a prominent citizen is buried the flags are lowered to half-mast and the business is closed out of respect to his memory. In the primary department of the Central school may be seen two little desks wreathed in beautiful flowers. Those two desks are vacant. The angel of Death has claimed their little occupants. Dear very dear to their teachers and playmates were Ada Ther... and Jessie Marshall, but they have passed to the ever green shore What more beautiful and fitting tribute could their schoolmates bestow than to keep their desks with fresh white flowers This tribute of remembrance was entirely original with the little children May their hearts be always thus tender and full of love and sympathy.

COMPLIMENTARY CONCERT.—The success attending the concert given at New Market Theater just prior to the departure for San Francisco of the Oregon delegation worked up such enthusiasm among our singers that they promised Mr. Kinross they would form a permanent society should he return and remain among us. This he has done and the concert is to be given on Saturday evening next as a testimonial to this gentleman's ability and as a mark of their appreciation of his services to those of our singers who visited the festival. Mr. Kinross informs us the programme will be an improvement on the last one, and certainly this fact and the popularity of the beneficiary should ensure a crowded house. The plan for reserved seats is now at Morse's palace of art

Should ... buildings will be ... for the headquarters ... together with the necessary expense of transferring the offices, papers furniture etc will aggregate a large sum more than to allow the headquarters to remain here. There may be wisdom and economy in such a policy but it is not apparent. Very naturally the officers here are much ... satisfied over the prospective change. It is to be hoped that the matter will be presented in its true light to the department at Washington and that such a foolish order may be rescinded Our relations and associations with the officers connected with the department have always been of a most pleasant character They have ever been gentlemanly and obliging and have extended this journal numerous courtesies of an official nature. That an order requiring their removal from this city should have been issued is a source of much regret Capt Sladen has forwarded a copy of the dispatch to Gen Howard who is now at the front asking what action shall be taken in the matter An answer may be anticipated in a few days Yesterday morning Gen Sawtelle and Capt Sladen went over to Fort Vancouver to ... the prospective transferment

The Puyallup Indians intend celebrating the Fourth with becoming festivities

The Thurston Coal Company has been organized to work the Skookum Chuck mines The locality is near the new penitentiary and convict labor will be utilized

The Dispatch says An amendment [illegible] may be required [illegible] introduced in the constitutional convention by Larrabee and supported by Messrs Andrews and Emery

Samuel Low who came to Oregon from Sangamon county [illegible] Rogue river valley and since then has resided in Silverton Marion county died [illegible] at Colfax W T whither he had gone to visit his descendants He was [illegible] years of age

The Palouse Gazette says Last Friday night [illegible] the Palouse and Snake river Indians were quietly encamped near town some low born scoundrel brought and gave them a quantity of whisky which produced the usual result a general fight among themselves and might have been extended further had it not been for the efforts of one of the chiefs It is this class and wandering loafing white vagabonds that often cause outbreaks among the Indians

A Political Review

From the Commercial Reporter

The following is an extract from a private letter from a leading merchant of this city now at San Francisco, to a friend in this city

I see that John H has met the enemy and is theirs Perhaps he will begin to think there is a God in Israel after a while Should think the party would get sick and tired of laying down under the weight of John H Shortly after his election Hiram Smith ran for congress John H insisted on the convention indorsing him It did so and Hiram was buried under two thousand majority Later he manipulated Henry Warren's campaign without an indorsement All of John H s friends supported Warren left handed and caused his defeat by a few hundred votes as they were afraid of him Then they tried Dick Williams with an indorsement of John H Dick laid down and LaDow got in without spending a cent or going out of his dooryard John H nominated Tolman for governor with like result During Hayes campaign John H was a Blaine or Conkling man Feeling sore over their defeat he kept out of politics and Hayes and Williams carried the state by 1 100 Now John H comes in again and the congressman and legislature lay down as usual Big man is John H Guess the party has got about enough of him Isn t it about time to sit down on John H in the way of caucuses as well as elections?

Sharp Criticism of Matthews

[From the New York Times]

As for Mr Stanley Matthews there can be no doubt as to the effect of his letters upon his own political character The little that was left him after his senatorial displays is utterly destroyed by these proofs of his intimacy with Anderson and of the solicitude he displayed in that person's behalf With all his scoundrelism it is evident that Anderson was in Matthews' opinion worthy of consideration at the hands of members of the administration and its friends The Ohio senator urged the New Orleans rascal for various offices with a pertinacity that is unintelligible except on the supposition that Anderson had an ackowledged claim upon the party. The patience with which the senator submitted to his impatience the courtesy extended to him after the utterance of insolent threats and the continuance of these friendly relations down to February last, are suggestive of Anderson's possession of valued secrets, and for Matthews anxiety for the retention of his good will We have had many reasons for regretting the election of Mr Matthews to the senate, he has been a perpetual Marplot and the cause of endless scandal to the president and the Republican party and these documents over his own signature are but in keeping with his senatorial career.
